Southeast Gas 'gives back' to local schools with monetary contributions

Southeast Gas recently announced its 2019 Give Back to Schools contribution of more than $125,000 to 20 public school systems in Alabama.

The Give Back to Schools initiative was established by Southeast Gas and its Board of Directors in 2010, and provides dollars to public schools based solely on their natural gas usage for the previous year. So, the more natural gas a school system uses, the more dollars that system will receive.

Coffee County Schools received an allocation of $1,638, which will be used to purchase classroom technology equipment for New Brockton School. Elba City Schools received an allocation of $1,919, which will be used for technology enhancements at both Elba High School and Elba Elementary School.

Southeast Gas Board member Harold Spicer worked alongside superintendents in each school system to determine the best way for funds to be allocated.

"In many cases, these funds remain unrestricted, allowing each school to have maximum flexibility to use the dollars in whatever way necessary for that specific school system," said Southeast Gas Board Chair and Troy Mayor Jason Reeves. "This is our tenth year to provide dollars to our local schools through the Give Back to Schools initiative, and to date Southeast Gas has provided more than $1.3 million to these public schools."

"Southeast Gas is deeply rooted in the communities it serves, and believes strongly that local schools are a critical component to community success," said

Southeast Gas President and CEO Greg Henderson.

In keeping with the company's long-time commitment to community service and to local education, Southeast Gas also sponsors the Southeast Gas Community Service Scholarship, a competitive scholarship program for high school seniors attending public schools currently served by Southeast Gas. The scholarships are $1,500, and are awarded to up to 22 students representing the 22 public high schools currently served by Southeast Gas.

In addition to the direct financial support Southeast Gas provides to these schools, Southeast Gas employees volunteer dozens of hours each year to improve many of the campuses through construction assistance, landscaping, painting, gas appliance maintenance, light carpentry, tutoring, mentoring and many other activities.

Southeast Gas provides natural gas service to 35 communities throughout Southeast Alabama.

Southeast Gas board member Harold Spicer (right) is shown presenting a check in the amount of $1,919 to Elba City Schools Superintendent Chris Moseley (left). The funds, presented as Southeast Gas' 2019 Give Back to Schools program will be used at Elba for technology enhancements at both Elba High School and Elba Elementary School. Moseley said Elba City Schools is very thankful to Southeast Gas for its support of local schools. The Give Back to Schools program was established in 2010.

New Brockton Town Council denies payment of bill for light replaced at town's park by beautification committee member

by Linda Hodge, Editor

The New Brockton Town Council had a relatively routine meeting Monday evening, Feb. 4, however, council members did deny payment of a bill that had been given to the mayor. Mayor Kathy Holley said the town had been presented a bill for $49.03 from a member of the beautification committee for replacing a light in the town's park. She said she had no idea this person, who was not identified, had taken upon his/her self to replace the light.

Council members asked if that person was in attendance for the council meeting Monday night, and the mayor said no.

According to Holley, at the time this bill was presented, she was waiting on a cost estimate to have that light and more within the town replaced with LED lights. Holley said the bill was actually presented to council member Shirley Eads during a beautification committee meeting.

Council member Eddie

Cordle said this person should have followed protocol, and in not doing so, he did not see where the town owed anyone for the replacement of the light. He said he felt the bill should be returned to the person. Cordle made a motion with a second from council member Ronald Terry to deny payment. All council members voted in favor of the motion to deny payment.

The council voted Monday night to approve a MainStreet proposal to pay $500 for one year to receive assistance from the MainStreet program to help make New Brockton marketable.

Cordle said he and the mayor had attended a meeting some time back with MainStreet, and he said he feels it is wonderful program that would benefit New Brockton greatly. He made a motion with a second from Terry to proceed with this effort. The motion passed unanimously.

Town clerk Debbie Andrews presented the monthly financials for the town. She noted at the end of January, the town had a balance of $176,587.18 in the general fund. Income for the month of January was $52,969.10.

With a motion from council member Courtney Campbell and a second from council member Ralph Medley, council members voted to pay the regular monthly bills for the town at an estimated amount of $16,009.96.

Also during the meeting, council members voted to purchase 50 bags of mulch for the upkeep of flower beds on city property.

Council member Eddie Cordle said this person should have followed protocol, and in not doing so, he did not see where the town owed anyone for the replacement of the light.

Elba is a designated MainStreet Alabama community, and it was selected to be one of three designated cities to host an Application Workshop for other communities looking to apply for MainStreet Alabama. Elba, Decatur and Birmingham were the three designated cities chosen to host these workshops this year, and Elba hosted a roomful of prospective applicants Tuesday, Jan. 22, at Elba City Hall. The first step in the MainStreet Alabama designation process is for communities looking to apply to attend an application workshop, and attendance to at least one of the three workshops held year is required to be able to apply for the MainStreet program. The last workshop this year is set for Feb. 12th in Birmingham. Above, MainStreet Alabama leaders explain the process to prospective applicant communities during the workshop held in Elba.

BRAINSTORMS

With Ferrin Cox

By now all our readers have listened to or heard details of President Trump's 'State of the Union' speech. Speculation as to what he would be saying has been all over the board. Probably the truth is he is the only one that can address this issue with any chance of being correct. One thing that many are predicting is he will call for 'unity'. Both sides are already doing that but if you listen closely it really means "agree with me and let's move on." Trump is the more direct with the demand, but his opponents are doing the same but trying to be smoother with their efforts. "Only on my terms" is not a very effective bargaining tool if all participants are demanding their ideas be adopted. Oh, we will survive, even if there is lots of anguish along the way.

The extreme cold weather experienced across much of North America last week set some records. Fortunately South Alabama only had some cold, but not the cold, cold of other places. We read of one railroad company having to burn coal along the rails to keep them from cracking apart as the train passed over them. Now brother that is cold!

There are all sorts of treatment for depression and often we see medical experts who are puzzled because nothing is working. Well a couple of research groups in Europe have done studies that indicate that a couple of digestive bacteria seem to be implicated and/or directly related to depression. If this proves to be true, it could be a major breakthrough for lots of people who are struggling to put one foot in front of the other.

A California politician was on the speaking circuit last week and is reported to have said, with a straight face, that President Trump is more a threat to America than Putin's Russia. That is a mighty strong statement and sounds a lot like someone who badly wants to be president himself.

Insurance company execs are warning that the cost of health care is going to continue rising. They are strongly predicting an increase in health insurance rates as soon as next year. That means many citizens will have to cut back on something, either everyday purchases or health care itself. The latter is not a good answer because it only leads to higher medical expenses.

Again this year we didn't watch the Super Bowl but saw a late game bulletin that showed a 3-3 score. Thinking that could not be correct we dug a bit deeper and found it was actually a 3-3 game late in the 4th quarter. Low scoring game is probably the reason so many people were describing Super Bowl Number 50 as a 'boring' game.

The Lions Club members are to be saluted for their ongoing work with collecting glasses for distribution to those less fortunate. This project has been a major part of their charity work for many years.

This week a lady brought us a couple of bags of pull-tabs from aluminum drink cans. These go to the Ronald McDonald House in Birmingham. We quietly save ours, pick up those dropped on the streets and help others who collect the aluminum get them to Birmingham. We read several years ago that this charity gets enough aluminum pull-tabs to pay the annual electric bill for their multi story building! That is serving a bunch of people who are in Birmingham long term for medical treatment.

~ Should We Tax Greenhouse Gases? ~

Guest Editorial by Daniel Sutter, Troy University

A group of distinguished economists, including Nobel prize winners and past Council of Economic Advisors members, recently supported a carbon tax. While the economic case for such a tax is strong, I nonetheless think the policy is ill-advised. Today let's consider the economics of a carbon tax.

A carbon tax would limit emissions of greenhouse gases, most notably carbon dioxide, due to their impact on global warming. The tax differs only subtly in effect from the "cap and trade" policy considered by Congress in 2010; I will not consider the differences here. A tax is probably the best way to limit greenhouse gases if we choose.

The economists propose replacing regulations and other policies to limit fossil fuels or encourage alternative energy – from the Clean Power Plan to tax credits for electric cars – with the carbon tax. This makes perfect sense. The pollution problem arises because actions like burning gasoline in a car effectively use clean air without the driver or oil company having to pay for it. The price is too low, resulting in too much pollution.

Economist A. C. Pigou hit upon a solution almost a century ago. Tax the good, or better yet the pollution, the amount of damage to the environment. The tax gets reflected in the price, and we can then let prices coordinate economic activity and protect the environment.

Prices never prohibit any activity for which someone is willing and able to pay. This is a huge advantage relative to regulation. A carbon tax ensures that we can use fossil fuels for highly valued activities like powering jet planes or running generators for hospitals during blackouts. Regulations often prohibit highly valued uses, causing significant costs.

Quantifying environmental damage is always challenging, and the impacts of global warming will not occur for decades. Any tax we impose now must rely on climate models to estimate future impacts.

Integrated Assessment Models pioneered by 2018 Nobel Prize winning economist William Nordhaus show how to value the estimated climate impacts.

Economic analysis shows that the carbon tax should increase over time. Fossil fuels become more expensive in a predictable manner. These rising prices provide the incentive to invest in electric cars or solar or wind energy without direct subsidies.

A carbon tax would also hit "alternatives" to fossil fuels generating significant carbon dioxide emissions. Ethanol blends corn with gasoline and is subsidized as a clean fuel. Yet growing corn uses fossil fuels to power tractors, harvesters, and irrigation equipment. We can avoid wasting money on politically favored non-solutions.

Using pollution taxes to fund government offers another benefit. When we tax anything, we get less of it. Taxing income, investment, or employment leaves us with less of things which drive prosperity. Each dollar in taxes raised costs the economy more than a dollar. When we tax pollution, we get less of a bad thing.

The economists propose rebating carbon tax revenue to Americans as a climate dividend. This also makes sense. A carbon tax will increase energy prices and poor Americans spend more of their income on energy than others. A carbon tax would be regressive, falling more heavily on lower income families.

Each household's climate dividend would be an equal share of the tax revenue. Poorer households spend a larger share of their income on energy, but high income households consume more energy. Low income households should receive a dividend larger than carbon tax paid.

Rebating the revenue might seem to just reverse the tax. Yet this is not true provided that the revenue is not refunded exactly as collected. If paying an extra $50 tax increases our climate dividend by exactly $50, then the refund cancels the tax. If I pay an extra $50 tax, it will be divided among more than 100 million households, so effectively I get none of it back.

A carbon tax makes economic sense, particularly if we eliminate other climate change regulations and alternative fuels subsidies. But the political process does not always employ policies as economists suggest. There's more to this story than just economics, although the rest of the story will have to wait until next time.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I am writing to thank Elba residents for sharing the true meaning of Christmas with children in need this past holiday season.

Because of the generosity of donors in Elba and across the United States, Operation Christmas Child, a project of Samaritan's Purse, collected more than 8.8 million shoeboxes in 2018. Combined with those collected from partnering countries in 2018, the ministry is now sending more than 10.6 million shoebox gifts to children suffering from poverty, natural disasters, war, disease and famine.

These simple gifts bring smiles to the faces of children around the world. Packed with fun toys, school supplies and hygiene items, these gifts bring joy and are a tangible expression of God's love. Since 1993, Operation Christmas Child has collected and delivered more than 157 million gift-filled shoeboxes to children in more than 160 countries and territories.

It's not too late for people to make a difference. Though drop-off locations serving Elba shoebox packers are closed until November 2019, anyone can still pack a personalized shoebox gift online at samaritanaspurse.org/buildonline. Information about year-round volunteer opportunities can also be found at samaritanaspurse.org/volunteerwithOCC.

Thank you again to everyone who participated in this global project—many who do so year after year. These simple gifts send a message to children worldwide that they are loved and not forgotten.

Local UDC members attend Winter Board meeting

Five members of the Gen. Edmond Winchester Rucker 2534 Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy recently attended the Alabama Division Winter Board meeting at the Montgomery Country Club in Montgomery, Ala.

More than 100 members of the Alabama Division were in attendance.

The meeting began with registration at which time members secured their President's Packets, 2018 Alabama Division yearbooks and Workshop Training materials. The business meeting began at 10:30 a.m. and was called to order by Alabama Division President Suzanna Rawlins. Salutes and pledge were given to the Christian flag, the Flag of the United States of America, the Alabama flag and the Confederate flag followed by the appropriate songs.

Among the items of business, a new President's Project was announced. The project will be to raise money for markers in the Alabama section of the McGavock Confederate Cemetery in Franklin, Tennessee.

Nearly 1,500 Confederate soldiers were killed in the Battle of Franklin including six generals. The McGavock home was used as a hospital for the wounded and dying.

Many soldiers were buried on the McGavock plantation following the Battle of Franklin. The graves are divided by state and a list of those buried in the cemetery is available in the plantation home.

Carrie McGavock, Mistress of the plantation, kept the list as accurately as possible. A dedication ceremony will be held in June, 2019 at the McGavock plantation in Franklin, Tenn.

The date and place for the Alabama Division Convention was also announced. It will be held September 12-14, 2019, in Huntsville, Ala.

Following the business meeting, attendees enjoyed a delicious luncheon and fellowship.

After the luncheon, each division officer gave a workshop. They gave information to the corresponding chapter officers on their duties.

The workshops were interrupted by tornado warnings but continued when the all clear was given. It was a very productive and informative session.

We Piddle Around theater presents "The Audrey Sheppard Williams Story" this Friday and Saturday

Audrey Sheppard walked away from the red clay fields of Pike County into the glaring spotlight of her husband, legendary country music star Hank Williams.

On Friday, Feb. 15, and Saturday, Feb. 16, the Brundidge Historical Society will present "The Audrey Sheppard Williams Story" at the We Piddle Around Theater in Brundidge, Ala.

Highly acclaimed story performer Dolores Hydock will take an inside look at Audrey Sheppard Williams and share a story that is different from any that has been told in print or on the screen.

Audrey Sheppard grew up in the Enon community of Pike County. She attended county schools and work in downtown Brundidge. She met Hank Williams at a medicine show in Banks and married him in Andalusia.

Through her husband, this Pike County woman had an influence on country music, not just here in Alabama but all across the country and beyond.

Audrey Sheppard

Williams was out setting up shows and making record deals for her husband when most young women were baking biscuits at home. She is said to have pushed Hank Williams into stardom and, perhaps, she was also the cause of some of his songs.

Tickets for the Audrey Sheppard Williams Story on February 15 and 16 at the We Piddle Around Theater in Brundidge are $25 and include the preshow, country supper and the presentation. Show time: 6:30 p.m. Doors open at 6:20 p.m.

For tickets, call 334-685-5524 or 334-344-0639 or 670-6302.

EES student donates to food bank

One hundred days can signify a lot of things.

For kindergarteners like Elba Elementary's Cate Capps, it represents one hundred days of the first official school year of their lives.

Many students and teachers dress up to celebrate the big day, but Cate Capps decided to go the extra mile in celebrating her 100th day of school. Cate chose to raise 100 cans of non-perishable foods to donate to the Elba Food Bank.

The call for canned foods went out Saturday, Jan. 26, and by Monday morning, Jan. 28, Cate had reached her goal! As a matter of fact, so many local citizens loved Cate's idea that she is still collecting cans to donate.

Views From The Pressbox

By Ricky Mularz, Sports Editor

Our little grandson Lawson really doesn't watch that much TV, but as I was scanning the dial over the weekend we came upon a 'Transformers' movie and he quickly stopped what he was doing and told me all about the different characters and what they could do. I'll admit the movie was fun to watch, and hopefully the next time he visits we can find another movie he likes and we can sit down and watch it together.

For what it is worth....

 The Elba Tigers won the area title last week with a win over Brantley and will now host the area tournament. The Tigers won eight of their last ten regular season games to close the season with a 13-6 record, with the only two losses to 7A Enterprise (22-7) and 4A Headland (21-7). Elba has proven in the past couple of weeks that they can play with anybody they face, but will have to refocus when the area tournament tips off and can't afford to overlook any of their area rivals. This team has the potential to make a long run in post-season play. However, no wins will come easy and the Tigers will have to play their best for four quarters every time they take the court.

 The Elba Lady Tigers knocked off Brantley last week in their area finale and claimed the number two seed in this week's area tournament. The Lady Tigers posted wins over 3A Straughn and Brantley in the last week of the regular season, and appear to be peaking at just the right time. Elba has a solid shot at winning the area tournament and moving on to Montgomery, but like the boys must play their best every time they play and take nothing for granted.

 It is 'Tournament Time' all across the state and that means that all the teams in the area will be focused and ready to play their best basketball of the season. Brantley's boys posted a 14-9 record and seem to have a solid shot at moving on to sub-region play, while the Lady Bulldogs entered area tourney play with a 20-8 slate and have to believe they still have a lot of ball left to play. Kinston may be the surprise team of the post-season as both the (10-13) Bulldogs and (10-13) Lady Bulldogs have played well in recent weeks and can beat anyone in their area on any given night. Zion Chapel will have to pull off an upset to advance since the (5-17) Rebels and (6-16) Lady Rebels, but both teams have pulled off a couple of upsets already this season and since the scoreboard will read 0-0 when the games start, there is always a chance. New Brockton appears ready to hand up its sneakers as the boys will enter post-season play with an 0-22 record and the girls will come in at 2-20. The good thing for the teams not expected to advance is that anything can happen and records mean nothing in the post-season.

 In closing.... my baby girl Melanie celebrated a birthday this week and as is custom in the Mularz house, we took her out to eat and then let her pick out her own present. She may not be a baby anymore, but she will always be my baby girl and she will always carry a part of my heart with her wherever she goes. I guess she may miss having a cake to help celebrate, but hopefully a Daddy's hug will help make the day special!

Lady Tigers surprise Brantley 54-46

The Elba Lady Tigers closed out area action last week with an exciting 54-46 win over the Brantley Lady Bulldogs, in Elba.

Elba got an early basket from Sandra Lindsey and then connected on four straight free throw attempts to open up a 6-0 lead with 5:50 left in the first quarter, only to see Brantley heat up from behind the arc as Olivia Jones canned a 3-pointer and Passion Person added two long 3-pointers as the Lady Bulldogs rallied to grab an 11-9 lead with 57-seconds still remaining on the clock.

Elba carried a 14-13 lead into the second stanza after a late 3-pointer by Sandra Lindsey, but couldn't put the Lady Bulldogs away and led only 20-19 with 3:55 left in the quarter after a basket by Brantley's Emory Bush.
